Generix Group receives international Drummond certification for its TradeXpress integration platform's ebXML

Generix Group, world EDI/B2B and collaborative management leader obtains certification from the Drummond Group for the interoperability of the ebXML of its BtoB platform, TradeXpress.

Generix Group's TradeXpress platform uses the EbMSV2 - EbXML (Electronic Business using eXtensible Markup Language) protocol to offer a global and open infrastructure and to guarantee professional B2B electronic exchange.

The leading B2B interoperability certification company, Drummond Group Inc. (DGI), conducts its interoperability and conformity tests based on open technical standards for different companies in a neutral environment. At the end of a programme of strict interoperability tests carried out in 2007, Generix Group received this world-recognised certification for the interoperability of the ebMS module of its B2B platform, TradeXpress.

David Figini, Integration product manager at Generix Group, states: "The Drummond Group certification is key to our development, particularly in the Aeronautics and other sectors such as the U.S. car market. EbMSV2 certification is one of the technical and strategic priorities of a number of sectors, including Automotive, Aeronautics (BoostAéro), Finance, Health and Governmental bodies. This international certification strengthens our positioning and performance in the field of Web services and on our key markets."
